Our people
The right place to grow

Our people

The right place to grow

Cultivating experts and entrepreneurs

We invest in our people, in our firm's transformation and in the growth of our clients. We celebrate the diversity of our international team and we encourage an entrepreneurial mindset. We share our expertise regularly, shaping the public debate on topics that matter most to the world of business today.

Championing entrepreneurs and education

We give our people professional autonomy so they can develop a meaningful career with us. Entrepreneurship is in our DNA. We value people who will not just come up with new ideas, but proactively share and implement them throughout the organisation. We encourage our staff to challenge established methodologies: finding ways to work smarter at every turn.

A diverse partnership

Achieving a high level of diversity is a core focus of our talent management strategy. Not only is it the right thing to do, it is a driver of growth, wider performance and engagement. As a multicultural firm, we celebrate what makes us different and strive to create a stimulating, safe environment for our people. We have placed a particular focus on improving our gender balance: today, more than half of our global workforce, and over a third of our Group Leadership Team, are women.

Nurturing practitioners and leaders in Asia

For the fourth consecutive year (2017–2020), Mazars in Singapore has received HR Asia's Best Companies to Work for in Asia Award. This award goes beyond recognising best practices, helping to set standards and raising the bar for employee engagement and workplace excellence in Asia.

We celebrate our own people's individuality and at the same time, help them become expert practitioners and empowered leaders. Most importantly, we want to make sure we provide the best possible conditions for our people to learn, grow and become tomorrow's problem solvers for our clients.
