

Amanda Liu

Quality Systems

Joined in 2018 as a fresh graduate.

What attracted you to join Edwards?

I wanted to do something meaningful relating to my Engineering studies upon graduation, and Edwards' strong patient-focused culture and purpose attracted me.

How did you assimilate into Edwards when you joined upon graduation?

I joined Edwards with an open mind and willingness to learn and grow. Being able to adapt is also important as Edwards is expanding rapidly and I have learnt to embrace changes and challenges!

What is a typical work day like for you?

I analyze processes, identify gaps and introduce innovative solutions to make proof our systems. It is rewarding to see my ideas come to fruition, especially when I have a great team working alongside me.

What is a memorable project that you have worked on previously?

I was recently involved to see through a system migration project from planning to implementation and worked with many cross-functional stakeholders. This opportunity has allowed me to hone my interpersonal skills and technical knowledge.

What is most important to you when working at Edwards?

Having had the opportunity to be part of the Diversity and Inclusion committee, I appreciate the importance of engagement by promoting inclusion and helping employees feel a sense of belonging to Edwards.

Share some activities that you engage in as part of the Diversity and Inclusion Committee.

As one of the pioneer members of the Diversity and Inclusion Committee, we strive to educate and create awareness among our employees through activities, such as Go Red for Women, Diversity Olympics bowling event and more. We also partnered with Breast Cancer Foundation to highlight Breast Cancer Awareness, and even arranged for a mammogram bus to our Company for employees' health screening. On top of that, we encourage growth by organizing online workshops and webinars.

What makes you proud to work at Edwards?

Knowing that I am able to make an impact and help improve the quality of patients' lives, this brings purpose to my daily work.

Edwards